THE YEAR'S EXHIBIT.

Col. Purcell's Annual Report to the Chamber of Commerce.

SERVE NO LONGER.

The President Having Filled the Office Three Years Declines Re-election, and the Matter is Deferred.

The annual meeting of the Richmon Chamber of Commerce was held yester-day afternoon, Colonel John B. Purcell, the president, in the chair. The attendance was quite large.

The first business in order was the reading of the annual report of the president, which was as follows: RICHMOND, VA., June 9, 1892.

to the Members of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce:

Chamber of Commerce:
Gentlemen,—At the close of this, our twenty-fifth year, I beg to submit to you the reports of the treasurer and the secretary. They give you a full and detailed account of the affairs of the chamber, and I respectfully commend them to your careful consideration. But few of our members are entirely familiar with the work of the chamber, or have a proper appreciation of what it is doing for our city. for our city.

Our committees have cheerfully given their time to the very onerous and varied duties imposed upon them, and while we have not accomplished all we have attempted, we feel satisfied that our efforts have awakened an interest in sub-forts have awakened an interest in subjects of so much importance to our prosperity that the discussion caused cannot fail to be productive of good.

During the year the chamber has distributed to a number of non-residents at considerable expense an accurate map of the city and its suburbs for a radius of the miles which has been reliable to five miles, which has been valuable for its intrinsic worth as well as an advertisement. The price at which these maps have also been sold to residents of the city—25 cents each, or 10 cents each in lots of fifty—barely covers the cost of printing the same.

On the 18th of June last this cham-On the 18th of June last this chamber, recognizing the propriety of the selection of the city of Richmond as the last resting-place of the remains of Hon. Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States, passed suitable resolutions requesting Mrs. Davis to give her consent to the removal of the remains to this city. Subsequently a committee of the chamber waited upon her and obtained her consent. tained her consent.

VIRGINIA AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Through the action of the chamber Through the action of the chamber our people became interested in the fair held here last fall, and were much gratified at having one of the most successful exhibitions of the society, as well as in laying the foundation for a grand exposition this fall, from which will be collected an exhibit of the resources of the State to be exhibited at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893. If the counties of our State could be induced to prepare exhibits of their products which could be retained in the exposition-building as permanent exhibits, a small appropriation from each county annually would enable the society to employ the necessary clerical force, keepers, &c., to replenish the exhibit as required and present to strangers and prospective settlers a map of the resources of each county. This would surpass any other mode of advertising that could be adopted, and could be effected at a very reasonable cost.

The suggestion made in my last report as to the extension of the city limits has been partly carried out, the last appeal of our committee will result in a large addition to our membership. The past year has not been as gratifying as its predecessors in all respects, but we have cause for congratulation notwithstanding. during the year, and deserves the thanks of our members for the patient and assiduous discharge of all the duties imassiduous discharge of all the duties imposed on it. Its prompt action prevented the removal of the office of the general freight agent of the Richmond and Danville reilroad. It has watched with a jealous eye every discrimination and engroushment on our communication. with a jealous eye every discrimination and encroachment on our commercial interests, has rectified abuses, settled disputes between railroads and shippers, and caused better railroads connections. It has failed in securing proper and reasonable rates on mileage tickets on some railroads, but has accomplished great good in this direction from others.

Through their exertions parlor-chair Through their exertions parlor-chair cars were put on the day trains between Richmond and Danville, but owing to insufficient patronage they were withdrawn after a trial of three months. The most important subject before this committee and the chamber was the railroad-commission bill. In December this committee, after a long December this committee, after a long and careful consideration of the subject, reported favorably to the board the measure known as the Kent bill, then before the Legislature. It was approved by the board and afterwards by the chamber at a quarterly meeting. Although this bill had been made to a great extent in the country an issue of the canvass it was defeated in the House and another passed which it was doubtless supposed would satisfy the people. It presented the shadow and not the substance of what was demanded. It was framed only to protect the railroads' interests, while the interest of the people was left where it was before—wholly at the mercy of such corporations as chose to trample upon rights and interests considered incompatible with their own.

AN ABATTOIR NEEDED. by the board and afterwards by the rights and interests considered incompatible with their own.

AN ARATTOIR NEEDED.

Your Committee on Health and Sanitation, charged with the investigation of the causes of disease, after laborious and careful examination into the subject, actively aided by a committee from the Academy of Medicine and Surgery, has made a most valuable report, which was referred to the City Council, in which they pointed out many things that cry aloud for reform; among them the need for an abattoir, the improvement of Shockoe creek, the proper supervision of plumbing, inspection of milk and meat supply. The province of the chamber, we take it, is simply to call attention to these matters; upon our City Council rests the responsibility of carrying out such of these recommendations as may commend themselves.

The Committee on Outward Trade has attempted again, at the assion of the last Legislature, to have repealed the obnoxious pilot laws, but has been unsuccessful. It behooves the chamber at each session of the General Assembly to renew this agitation until our coastwise commerce is relieved from this unjust tax, which benefits no one except the members of the close corporation of pilots who collect it, and by its means are canabled to retain a corps of attorneys and lobbyists to provent its repeal. Tour committee has exerted its influence on the Congress of the United States for the passage of a bill to accompilab this end, and the bill has passed the Senate of the United States.

The Committee on Extrace Service

Adams and Southern Express compains a guarantee of express rates which are very satisfactory, and an assurance of proper facilities, which will greatly encourage business of this character.

Special committees have been appointed from time to time to confer with the President and Postmaster-General, as well as the managers of the United States and Brazil Mail Steamship Company, in reference to proper facilities for exports and imports at Newport News. In this matter they have been greatly aided "by the Wholesale Grocers' Associations of Richmond and the South. This question has assumed a national importance, but I forbear to enter here into a full account of it, as by direction of the Board of Directors a full statement of the chamber's connection with the matter has been prepared and with the matter has been prepared and published in pamphlet form and a copy sent to each member.

STATE BOARD OF TRADE. During the month of May, at the suggestion of the Buena Vista Chamber of Commerce, a meeting of the various chambers and boards of trade of the chambers and boards of trade of the State was held in this city for the purpose of organizing a State Board of Trade. A temporary organization was effected and Mr. E. G. Leigh, Jr., was elected president. This is a matter of so great importance that I wish to particularly direct the attention of the chamber to it. It is of great importance that the commercial and manufacturing interests of the whole State should organize for defence of their interests and to co-operate for the general good. Consultation among the various cities of the State will develop the patent fact that our interests the various cities of the State will develop the patent fact that our interests are identical, and that hurtful legislation to one section is equally hurtful to all. The day for petty jealousies among cities has passed. The telegraph and rapid transportation makes all of our cities practically one community, and wholesome legislation must bring prosperity to each; only the slothful and laggards have fears of rivals in the race where each has equal facilities and no incumbrances or impediments to trade. The combined influence of such an organization wielded for the common good will be of untold advantage to all.

tion wielded for the common good will be of untold advantage to all.

In this connection I can point to the valuable work done by the Wholesale Grocers' Association of this city, also the organization of the Virginia and North Carolina, Wholesale, Grocers', Associaorganization of the Virginia and North Carolina Wholesale Grocers' Association. The formation of these and of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association indicates a purpose on the part of the trade of the South to assert the rights and importance of its manufacturing and trade centres, and is worthy of emulation by other branches of business. In these days of large moneyed monopolies it is necessary that the weak should combine for their better protection, and assert by combination that power which as individuals they would be unable to exert.

TO INCREASE THE MEMBERSHIP. I regret that we cannot report an increase of our membership for the year. While we have gained many valuable new members, many of those who had joined within the past two or three years failed to continue their membership.

Our efficient Committee on Resident Members are now engaged in another effort to bring in new members. It is to be regretted that so many of our substantial citizens fail to realize the good have increased and money has been ex-ceptionally easy. Collections which at first were not satisfactory have greatly increased, and the average is as good as herctofore. The low price of cotton has curtailed business in those sections, but in the grain and tobacco section, business is reported better. The collapse of land booms has caused a depression in some sections, but in our city we have been free from this, and the rainment of such of its members as the visit our city just before the session of the association at Old Point during his month.

INLAND-TRADE COMMITTEE'S WORK.
The Committee on Inland Trade has, a usual, had its burden of business and we have for the coming summer has a sum and we have for the coming summer and fall indications of more building than for many years. The most grati-fying revival of business to be seen is in leaf tobacco, largely due to the inauguaration of loose bright tobacco sales, which have grown so rapidly that where there were no warehouses a year ago we now have at least five in full and successful operation.

cessful operation. THE CHAMBER'S NEW HOME.

It is my pleasant duty to report to the chamber that the financial arrange-ments have been completed for the erection of the Chamber of Commerce building. In pursuance of your gen-eral instructions and authority vested in eral instructions and authority vested in the board by the General Assembly of Virginia we have purchased and paid for the property at the southwest corner of Ninth and Main streets, fronting 781 feet on Main street and running back 103 feet to an alley, which cost us about $65,000. We are about to contract for the erection of a seven-story stone-and-brick twilding, to cost about $150,000. brick building, to cost about $150,000, and the money for its erection has been obtained from citizens of this city on a mortgage bearing 6 per cent. interest for forty years. Work will be commenced at once, and the building completed in at once, and the binding complete in sixteen to eighteen months. I congratu-late you on the success of your enter-prise, begun among so many difficulties, and the discouragement received from sources on which we had relied for help and encouragement. This building will stand as a monument to the enterprise of our citizens of all classes, for among its contributors a great majority are men of small means. Its completion will mark a new era in the style of the architecture of our principal business street. It will be the only perfectly-equipped office building in the city, and will encourage the development of greater conveniences in the construction of modern offices. Our thanks are due to the members of your Building and Finance Committees for the time and Finance Committees for the time and Finance Committees for the time and labor bestowed upon all the details of their work. I cannot refrain, in speaking of our building, from alluding to the liberality of our public-spirited fellow-citizen, Major Lewis Ginter, without whose timely help we could not have completed our original design. He has not only contributed of his means, but has sustained us by words of encouragement that were highly gratifyencouragement that were highly gratifying to your committee.

The report of the treasurer shows how regent are our needs at all times for ands with which to carry on our work.

funds with which to carry on our work, it is necessary, to properly carry out our work, that we should be able to command ready money, and we often have to neglect important matters for the want of necessary funds. I again suggest the importance of devising some scheme by which our annual dues will be equitably apportioned, with a view to the increase of our revenue.

I return my thanks to your Board of Directors, who have diligently assisted me in our work, and also to the committees of the chamber for the prompt and decirive manner that has characterized their deliberations. To our efficient secretary, Mr. Dunlop, I am under leating obligations for his seal, intelligence, and industry, which has made our work both pleasant and unfal, With elligent discrimination which he hangest to his office has alone rendered possible to do as much as we have an pleased to refer also to the courant attention to duty displayed by clerks, Messra. Luxford and McCanna presenting the report of our treate, Mr. Montague, I take pleasure in king him for the prompt and teems discharge of the duties of his office.

I have concluded now the third year of my service as your president, and I surrender to you the charge committed to me. I feel sensibly my shortcomings and inability to fully measure up to the responsibilities of the honorable office you have conferred on me. I can only beg your indulgence where I have failed to carry out your fullest desires.

In severing the official ties which have so pleasantly subsisted between us I trust to be always found ready to do my full share in the future as an humble worker in the ranks.

JOHN B. PURCELL, President.

COULD BERTE NO LONGER. The report of the treasurer was read and referred to the board for auditing.

Colonel Purcell then arose and said he had served the chamber three terms, and he therefore thought he could ask permission to retire. Other considerations aside, his business would not allow him to continue in the position.

Mr. Edgar Taylor said he hoped Colonel Purcell would consent to serve another term. This was a critical period in the history of the chamber. He therefore placed Colonel Purcell in nomination.

Colonel Purcell replied that it would be impossible for him to accept. The matter, he assured the chamber, had been carefully thought over, and it was impossible for him to hold the office THE ELECTION POSTPONED.

Mr. S. H. Hawes said he was confident the chamber did not expect this announcement of Colonel Purcell. They all expected him to serve again. He moved that the election of president be postponed for thirty days, and that Colonel Purcell be requested to continue in office for that length of time.

Hon. George L. Christian moved as an amendment, and it was accepted by Mr. Hawes, that the election of all the officers be postponed until an ad-and Mr. Henry Rick—Other Items.

The marriage of Miss Annie Miller to Mr. Henry Rick on Tuesday evening the 7th, at the residence of Mr. C. N. Miller, East Richmond, was one of the most brilliant affairs that has ever occurred about here. The bride wore a veil and orange-blossoms, and was dressed in white China silk with pearl trimmings, her ornaments being diamonds—the gift of the groom.

The parlors were profusely decorated with flowers. On the left as one entered the door an altar had been erected for the occasion. It was spanned by an arch of evergreens and pink roses, from which a large sphere of pink carnations was suspended, and pink hydrangeas and geraniums graced the base of the arch. and Mr. Henry Rick-Other Items.

The bridal party was ushered in by the seven brothers of the bride. More than three score of her immediate rela-tives witnessed the solemn and impres-sive ceremony, as performed by her af-fectionate pastor, Rev. Paul Menzel. After this was over and the tender and heartfelt congratulations had been of-fered the company were invited to the dining-room below to partake of sup-per, and it was such a supper as Mrs. Miller is noted for giving—elegant and bountiful with the delicacies of the seabountiful with the delicacies of the season. The presents were many and very elegant and expensive, indicative of the popularity and worth of the lovely young bride. The bridal pair left on the 10:30 train for Old Point, thence northward for a trip of ten days.

Mr. Hawes, that the election of all the officers be postponed until an adjourned meeting to be held on July 14th.

Mr. Everett Waddey urged Colonel Purcell to reconsider. At this critical period, he said, it was the incumbent's duty to continue to serve the chamber in the capacity of president. He insisted upon nominating him, with the understanding that if he saw fit he could resign in the fall of the year.

Colonel Purcell said he was under obligations, personal and private, not to accept the office again, but he was willing to continue in office thirty days. He explained, however, that he expected to continue to work in behalf of the new Chamber of Commerce building and give his best efforts to the interests of the body.

Several other members expressed strongly the desire that Colonel Purcell reconsider his determination.
